Introduction

Technology and software are advancing at an ever-increasing pace; business needs are also moving at an unprecedented pace. Keeping pace with these needs means a company can no longer afford to waste time with the mundane tasks of buying and building application servers; installing applications on servers and/or PCs and keeping them up-to-date. Demands are also increasing the need to protect intellectual property, ensure security, and comply with regulatory requirements. For small to medium businesses that don't have a large IT department, these challenges are insurmountable.

By employing Proxios' Software Subscription Service, we take over the complexity and cost of trying to maintain a consistent end user experience and ensure that every user has secure and immediate access to the applications and data they need regardless of what computer or mobile device they are using. We make sure that users are always presented with the same application version regardless of the device. And by having your applications in our highly secure datacenter or in Microsoft's Public Cloud you have built-in business continuity that enables your employees to continue their work in case of a disaster, loss of access or illness.

How it Works

Proxios' Software Subscription Service enables you to focus on improving the adoption, usage and efficiency of your business applications and processes instead of trying to keep all of your PCs and applications up-to-date. The Proxios Private Hosted Software Subscription Service solution is built on the industry-leading, Citrix XenDesktop® virtual desktop infrastructure and the Citrix Netscaler® application delivery controllers. Proxios maintains a "golden image" of your entire application suite and is able to rapidly deploy patches and upgrades to all users. If the Office 365 Public Cloud option is chosen, the applications are maintained by Microsoft but managed and supported by Proxios' USA-based world class support team.
